Maggie Macaulay Becomes Director with International Network for Children and Families

Macaulay Will Train Instructors to Teach Redirecting Children's Behavior™ Course

Maggie Macaulay, MS Ed, owner of Whole Hearted Parenting in Miramar, became a Director with the International Network of Children and Families (INCAF) on October 29, 2007. Certified as an instructor of Redirecting Children's Behavior™ (RCB) since 2000, Mrs. Macaulay will now train others to teach the empowering course for parents, and she will also co-lead the team of instructors in south Florida. With headquarters located in Gainesville, Florida, INCAF was founded almost thirty years ago by Kathryn Kvols, author of Redirecting Children's Behavior. The organization is a worldwide parent training network that teaches skill-building strategies to families. The classes emphasize teamwork, creating win-win situations, and effectively avoiding power struggles using kind-but-firm methods promoted by Alfred Adler and Dr. Rudolf Dreikurs. The discipline methods build children's self-esteem. There are over 1000 instructors of the RCB course throughout the United States and in 10 other countries around the world.
